LOOKING AT THE NEWS WITH COLONEL HUGH CLARK

It is not for ministers to receive capital or the system so imperfectly described by that word. Whatever its defects it has not neglected churches and missions, schools and universities, hospitals and charities, and art; all these have been benefited and promoted by capitalism, or the human products of that system. We cannot be so sure that they would have as well in a socialistic or a communistic state.

If people generally approve certain measures they are sure to get them. Men in public life are only too willing to oblige. They have been known to oblige even when they doubted the wisdom. When anyone threatens violence it is because he knows the power is opposed or indifferent to his ideas of reform. He may be perfectly conscientious and believe that he is attempting to force upon the whole people the will of a minority, which is in itself the worst form of despotism. Violent theories are apt to regard themselves as liberators and the public generally as dumb, stupid cattle.

Some Toronto Jews recently staged a demonstration against Hitler and Hitlerism. The strategic spot in which to fight Hitler and Hitlerism is Germany but that is just the spot they do not wish to go to. They prefer to fight at long range even if it embroils Canada with a friendly nation.

One of the banners carried demanded repeal of Section 98 of the Canadian Criminal Code, which suggests that the demonstration was staged by Communists or that they incited into it.

The world is so heavily in debt that those who think it owes them a living are just a lot of luck.

Camera men taking pictures for newspapers have an incurable notion that the subject should smile at them. They even demand that John D. Rockefeller perform for them on the 50th anniversary of his birthday. He is believed, but he didn't show his teeth.

There is a shifting about in exchange that helps explain the funds. Canadian borrowers of U.S. funds are relieved when there is a party of exchange. It means the saving of many millions of dollars. At the same time, however, sterling goes above par and Canadian borrowers at London, who profit

TOWN COUNCIL HOLD REGULAR MEETING

Tuesday night, Mayor Shipton cast his eagle eye around the legislative assembly and found that notwithstanding the Council's long and tiring session, the Council was not only present but also very attentive. A question was presented by the Mayor for the Council to consider. The Mayor requested the Council to wear to bring in his every vest fountain pen and proceed with the reading of the Minutes, when we were found to be correct as the custom demands in Dundas and upon motion confirmed by his honor.

A letter was read from Mr. McLaren that he would not require the office lately occupied by Chas. Keeling and offered to pay half a month's rent.

Considerable discussion followed regarding tenancy of Town property in arrears of rent and it was decided that specific arrangements must be made for current month's rent together with a percentage upon arrears.

Mr. Weiss announced that a new Deputy Mayor for August, September and October was a necessity, so after giving the matter very careful thought, he said he would be on the bench present, and that the hot weather was almost at an end.

for this season, that it would not be over working him to impose these duties on Councilors. A letter was read from the Canadian Pacific Railway stating that they will pay taxes on vacant lots for 1933, but that there may be a change of ownership in 1934, through placing the lots into a holding company. They offer the lots outside of the city, including the Irrigation ditch to the Town.

Some very plain talk was given to a man on behalf together with some good advice regarding the situation in work.

A number of current accounts were passed on to Finance Committee to payment.

A round table talk followed in regard to the necessary changes in our system of carrying on actual business together with some excellent thoughts in regard to the plan of picking up the man and the work who is picked off the railway for performing a free ride on a freight train, creating a bill of expense to put the young man in prison and possibly starting the lad on a career of crime. Either more responsibility must be placed on the moonie so occupied in quite needless in the community.

JACKENIE KING
 NOT COURTING
 C. C. F.

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in the first speech, says the Toronto Globe, of his Western trip, dealt clearly and definitely with the newly Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, showing that the Liberal Party has no intention of courting association with the false doctrines promoted. Reemphasizing its traditions of freedom of individual action, the Liberal Party could not do so. State control of industry and finance, Mr. King pointed out, inevitably meant that individuals must accept the decisions of those in power, and where they would work, what they could do and how and when they could do it. A force would inevitably grow up to see that the will of those in authority was carried out.

Citizens inclined to heed the superficial arguments of the C. C. F. promoters would do well to consider the Liberal Leaders words. Of course, there are a certain number of people in any country who would prefer to let the State look after them instead of exerting their own energy to helpful ends. The majority of Canadians are not of this calibre. They were bred in an atmosphere of independence. With these there can be no choice between direction of the individual by a State oligarchy and direction of State affairs by the combined will of the majority.

Sovereignty of the State over the individual prevails only in Russia. The original Fascist policy in Italy has been so modified that the individual citizen is not now subjugated. Force is dominating factor of Soviet rule. Should the C. C. F. by any stroke of ill fortune, become the ruling political power, the people would have to expect either closely coordinated force compelling adoption of a policy or utter chaos.

Neither the temper of the Canadian people nor the democratic form of government prevailing calls for so radical a change. The voters have it within their ability to express themselves in the medium of the two parties which have served them well since Confederation. Their liberty in this respect is always recognized by the Liberal Party. Moreover where two well defined major parties exist, government proves more stable. France and Germany are clear examples of the chaotic state of affairs present when a multitude of parties attempt to direct the national administration.

If the voters are not satisfied with the conservative Party, they can find expression through the Liberal medium, and they can as readily throw aside a Liberal regime if it fails to measure up to their demands.—Toronto Globe

AUSTRALIA RESTRICTS

During the World Economic Conference, Australian representatives have been uneasy concerning the proposal for restricting agricultural production. The climax to this feeling was reached recently when Mr. Stanley M. Bruce of Australia announced that his country was definitely opposed to the policy of restriction.

Australia during the depression has not accumulated any agricultural surplus, although that country is the greatest wool producer in the world, and is also one of the largest wheat growers. Several factors account for this condition in Australia. Of recent years Japan has become an active bidder for Australian wool, while China has bought considerable quantities of wheat from the Australian market. The Commonwealth Government in 1925 established a rural credit department in the Government bank largely as an aid to farmers in marketing their products. The department grants loans to cooperative organizations of farmers, but not to the individual farmer.

The policy of the rural credit department is directed toward orderly marketing of agricultural products and does not encourage farmers to hold their commodities. The bank will not grant more than an initial loan of 10 per cent of the value of the product to any organization that is not actively trying to sell its produce. The rural credit department does not encourage holding of produce in the hope of better prices. Its outside limit as to the length of loan is one year.

The financing of marketing has been important in preventing hoarding of agricultural products in Australia, for though the Government bank has not made sizable loans on wool, it has advanced extensive grants to wheat co-operatives, covering at times as much as half of the wheat harvest in Victoria.

The absence of a surplus of agricultural products in Australia, together with the fact that vast areas are still available for cultivation, finally caused Stanley Bruce the Australian delegate, to oppose at the World Economic Conference any restriction upon agricultural production. Young countries see no reason as yet for retarding their expansive activities. To them the problem of marketing is one of underconsumption rather than of overproduction.

FIRESTONE PERFECTS TRACTOR TIRE

The steady onward march of the pneumatic tire, from horse drawn carriages to racing cars flying at 100 miles per hour over sunbaked bricks at Indianapolis; from horseless carriages to the pneumatic tread railroad car speeding at 87 miles per hour over steel rails, has at last invaded the agricultural field with the announcement by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. of a low pressure pneumatic tire for use on agricultural tractors. This revolutionary tire which is to replace the present steel lugged wheels on farm tractors operates under 12 pounds air pressure and during many months of testing Firestone's superiority has been proven in all classes of farm service. Plowing in wet soil, sand, peat bogs and sodded fields are a few of the many tests to which the new tire has been subjected.

The tractor equipped with the new tractor balloon becomes a general purpose tractor, according to Firestone engineers. The tractor balloon, it is claimed, increases the possible use of tractors more than doubling the different types of work for which tractors are used. They can be used on paved highways for hauling wagons, or to equipment in the field, they permit higher speed operation with more work done in less time. The greatly increased efficiency is said to effect gasoline savings up to 25 per cent depending upon the type of work done.

pressure limits ground pressure to 12 pounds per square inch eliminating packing of soil or seed bed. The pneumatic tire tractor can be driven inside farm buildings without injuring the floor surface. During field operations turns can be made without injury to adjoining fields. They reduce rolling resistance of tractor, thereby minimizing power losses. They apply less to equipment. It is claimed, they permit higher speed operation with more work done in less time. The greatly increased efficiency is said to effect gasoline savings up to 25 per cent depending upon the type of work done. Tests show increases in drawbar horsepower to as high as 50 per cent in high gear operation. Tractor operations with the new tractor balloon are made possible in high gear, heretofore possible only in second gear with steel lugged wheels. The air cushioned riding gives increased comfort to the driver and enables him to do a better job. Low pressure tires will not pick up or throw dirt over operator or machine. Greatly reduced vibration means lower maintenance and less depreciation of the tractor.

Canadians to Visit Mysterious Bali

Bali that mysterious tropical island off the coast of Java where Eve would have been almost over-dressed and native boys—although they have heard of him, Mr. Gandhi, will be more than a name but no less a mystery to a number of lucky Canadians by this time next year.
 Per Bali, literally unknown until a motion picture director took his cameras and microphones there a few of us ago, has been added to the itinerary of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain's 1934 world cruise sailing from New York January fourth.
 Balinese, simple and unaffected, acted a charming love story for the screen. But they had to be taught what a kiss was. They live in a land of temples. Although education is not a strong point they can still count the few white people who have ever visited the island. They cannot count the number of dogs they own. They save the bodies of their dead until the last member of a family dies and then bury them in one sacred cave. When priests send word that devils are abroad every man, woman, child and dog must stay within doors so no devils will impede the demons' quick departure. They love to dance and on March 8 and 10, 1934 are especially performing traditional dances for the Empress of Britain's world cruise passengers.
 In addition to Bali, new world cruise calls will be made by the big, white liner at Semarang, Java, and Zamboua, in the Sulu Archipelago. The cruise will visit 35 ports in 24 countries covering 30,000 miles in 130 days.
 The pictures show a temple in Boeleben, a youth (far bottom) (top right) and a typical scene outside a native house where a cremation is about to be held.

ROCKYFORD
Rockyford annual sports drew a good crowd on Wednesday July 26th. The day opened with a base ball game between Standard and Rockyford Juniors at 12 o'clock. The boys played good ball with victory as singles. The long end of the score was retained by the home team. The players for the suball tournament took much of the afternoon, the teams competing were Rosedale, Beaver, M'roon, and Rockyford. Mosbrook took themselves the better players and captured the prize for the day. At 4 o'clock the Intermediates played a ball game between Glen and Rockyford. In this game the home team made a good showing by taking first place. Wins of every kind were well contested, the younger crowd enjoy so in the full all the different events, the horse race also claimed the attention of many. During the entire day Mr. G. Christie of Calgary was busy with his plane taking passengers, and it gave all many a thrill to have it sweep over the sports ground so frequently. In evening a very interesting boxing bout was conducted at the skating rink where a platform has been erected. The hall was crowded to the doors for the dance at which Ed McLean's Orchestra supplied the music and the Catholic Women's League the supper. The Rockyford Rate Payers Association who sponsored the day express their great pride at the results of the enjoyable day.

We are glad to know that Percy Riley is recovering as well from his recent operation which he has had on his eyes, we trust to see him home again in a short time.

The three Roppel families are enjoying a fishing trip at Pine Lake for a few days. Mrs. A. Patterson from Iritana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo Roppel is accompanying her family on the trip.

The younger members of the Boy Scouts namely the Cubs have opened camp at the last year's camping ground at Rosedale. Several of the older boys are in charge and all are looking forward to a week's wonderful experience.

Harvest is getting very close. Several of the farmers have cut barley and a few fields of wheat are being started.

CARD OF THANKS
Mrs. R. Hornstra and boys wish to thank their many friends for their many acts of kindness and for the beautiful floral tributes re-received during their recent bereavement.

"MULLIGAN"
Midnight oil, minutes stretch, from a busy work day, before breakfast and after dinner, waitful hours when all others were asleep, moments of sober thinking in the midst of the risible comedy of the World—all these ingredients have been poured instinctively into the feast of "Mulligan" prepared by Bill Sallis of Calgary, Alberta. Mr. Sallis, in this timely thought little booklet on the live economic topics of the present day, hour and minute, in his brief and pointed phrases, represents him self as that familiar war time character, Company Cook, preparing an intellectual Mulligan, from the choice morsels in the pantry of the World.

To my everlasting regret, I was not privileged to eat a Mulligan in the front line trenches, but Bill Sallis' present booklet carries in its spicy tale, its peppery words its well seasoned phrases and its astounding sentences, something of the original trench Mulligan, I can readily understand why the fore can eat such a hearty lunch of daring and determined fighters for the Rights of Humanity.

Standing in the World's Pantry, gazing in stores of abundance and hearing the insistent cries of hunger, war, despair, misery, mis-temperance put outside this marvelous feast, I feel sure that the very basis of things in connecting his intellectual Mulligan, to feed a starving World.

Chapter One, Preparing the Feast, deals with present economic and social conditions, and their causes. With keen insight and the pen of a versatile reader of current history Bill places the blame for our present economic chaos where it belongs, at the door of human selfishness, avarice and indifference, as beautifully illustrated in Sallis' story of today.

Then, as a dash of common sense not afraid of the Captain, the Major, the Colonel, the General, nor of the Devil himself, he proceeds to tell us up to date, how we can make our eight most interesting and thought provoking chapters, given as a well connected, well written and well edited booklet on our economic and social troubles and in the process he thinks right through the problem in a logical, sensible, reasonable and really accomplished end. If we have the mental and moral courage to go over the top, the book is ours. I do not pretend to be a literary gem. It is rough, rugged, smells of the outdoors, but it comes from the very heart of a serious and thoughtful man who has the courage of his convictions. It is the immortal cry of long suffering humanity in the grip of selfishness, avarice and greed.

It is an epitome, an essence of the age old cry of humanity for social and economic justice. It is a criticism in words which reach to the humblest of us, and its clear-cut statement of facts, its concise and causes the outline of the reality of our condition, should be a goal to all. One hundred and twenty years ago the poet Shelley himself a daring reformer for that time, wrote: To the Men of this land

The seed ye sow another reaps, The wealth ye find another keeps, The robes ye weave another wears, The arms ye forge another bears. Bill Sallis is not a modern author. He does not write in velvet slippers on a mahogany table with a golden pencil, surrounded by all the alluring mental treasures of a professional writer. His rough thoughts come to him in his daily work, shining dishes, nothing but treading structures, pouring irrigation water to the thirsty, and for that very reason Mulligan has something in it as indelible something which is different from the arm chair stuff usually cooked up for our consumption.

I sincerely hope that all who come across this sincere review of the Mulligan booklet by Bill Sallis, will read it and pass it on. It is a forceful, potent, dynamic little engine of constructive thought processes, and contains in a few heartfelt, common words the essence of applied mental chemistry. Common Sense. BERT HUFFMAN, Leduc, Alta.

Wife—'I'm afraid I've only two courses for you tonight, Ed. One—That's quite all right. I'm all out for economy. And of course it saves you work. Wife: Thank you, Mulligan. I'll bring them in, cheer, followed by fruit
